AFL Strikes Delay Progress on Three Projects of Import

Work at Two Ordnance Depots and in Huge Steel Mill Halts

(By The Associated Press)
Construction of the government's $8,000,000 San Jacinto (Texas) ordnance depot was at a standstill today because of an AFL strike, but some progress was achieved toward settlement of a similar strike at an $11,000,000 ordnance project near Texarkana, in the same state.

Another AFL strike halted steel making at the south's largest mill, near Birmingham, Ala. Work on the San Jacinto job stopped yesterday when several hundred workers walked out. A spokesman for the AFL teamsters union said the contractors had refused to recognize the local as bargaining agent.

At the Texarkana project, where AFL building trades union workers have been on strike for three days, representatives of the strikers accepted a settlement formula proposed by Bryce P. Holcombe, a U. S. labor conciliator. The contracting firm asked additional time to study the plan.

Steel Plant Closed
A complete halt in steel making operations occurred at the vast Fairfield steel mills of the Tennessee, Coal, Iron & Railroad Company near Birmingham, Ala. AFL electricians and machinists struck there last night, closing manufacturing units. A spokesman said the strike was called because the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee had established a card inspection line outside the plant and had refused to permit anyone but CIO members to enter.

Approximately 11,000 persons are employed in three shifts at the Fairfield plant, which has been operating at capacity for more than a year.

Green Makes Appeal
A one-day strike of CIO employees at the Carnegie-Illinois sheet and tin mill, Gary, Ind., was settled last night after company officials assured the union they had "no intention of interfering with any lawful, peaceful dues inspection" outside the plant gates. The strike was called after police had taken into custody a picket engaged in a union dues-collection drive. The police said the picket had roughed up a young woman.

Viereck Freed on Bail of $15,000

New York, Oct. 9. (AP)—George Sylvester Viereck, 56-year-old German born journalist, was free under bail of $15,000 today pending his appearance in Federal court in Washington tomorrow to plead to a five count indictment charging him with failure to disclose material facts in registering as a representative of a foreign government.

Viereck, described as "one of the most serious menaces in this country," by William Power Maloney, special assistant to the attorney general, at his arraignment yesterday, was charged with consulting persons regarding politics and public policy and preparing speeches relating to those subjects.

The indictment further charged that Viereck wrote articles under fictitious names and that he did not list those names nor all of his activities in his registration as an agent for a foreign government.

The War Today!

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The Russian position on the fighting front is exceedingly grave, but not hopeless.

The greatest danger to the Red defense lies in the central sector, west and southwest of Moscow.

Here the nazis have continued to drive into the bolshevik line the two long salients from which great encircling movements have been thrust out in an effort to surround and destroy sections of the enemy forces. One of these salients extends along the direct Smolensk - Vyazma route to the threatened capital, and the other is farther south in the strategic Bryansk-Orel area.

The Germans this morning claimed to have crashed through this vital central sector and to have encircled from sixty to seventy Red divisions. This would mean between three-quarters of a million and a million men.

If this is true it will tax soviet Marshal Timoshenko's skill to the utmost to avert a major disaster. A collapse of the Russian defense in the center would make it exceedingly difficult for the Reds to save the situation to the north and south, especially in the latter sector in the Ukraine where Marshal Budyenny is fighting with back to wall.

The initiative and the advantage rest with the Germans at this writing. Whether the invaders are able to exploit their gains depends on a matching of wits between attacking Marshal General Fedor von Bock and defending Marshal Timoshenko.

Von Bock's strategy is to encircle and annihilate—to kill and capture men rather than to take territory and cities. Timoshenko's defense must be to evade those great encircling arms of steel, and to extricate his troops if the nazis actually have encircled them as claimed. The Red commander must do all this and still maintain the defense of Moscow, and contact with the Red armies on his right and left. Some tasks!

The nazis are smashing their

Contents of Personal Letter from F. D. R. to Stalin Known in Germany

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—The White House shared public mystification today on how the German government learned what was in a letter President Roosevelt sent Premier Stalin, promising Russia aid against Germany.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said this government did not know how it happened, but "the significant thing is the use the Germans tried to make of the letter."

(The published German version had the salutation and conclusion in friendly, personal phrases.)

The official German news agency, DNB, raised the curtain on the mystery in Berlin yesterday by distributing the purported text of Roosevelt's communication.

Some time later, the White House released the text here, and

All Non-Essential Construction Must Stop, SPAB Decrees

Sweeping Priorities Order Issued by Board in Capital Today

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Supply Priorities and Allocations Board issued a sweeping policy decree today forbidding the start of any public or private construction which would use critical materials essential to the nation's defense or to the public health and safety.

The ruling applied, the SPAB announcement said, to power, navigation, and flood control projects, office buildings, post offices, hotels, highways and even residential construction. Its effect was to suspend such non-essential building for the duration of the emergency, SPAB officials said.

The ruling carried the implication that the priorities division headed by Donald M. Nelson, by using its priority power to deny materials to projects it considers unessential, could block public works projects by congress.

Virtual Veto Powers
In such a case, it would permit exercise of a virtual veto power to halt action on one project approved by congress while permitting another project contained in the same legislation to go ahead.

The SPAB announcement said the new policy means that two tests will be applied hereafter to

"Battered Bride" Thief's Nemesis

Chicago, Oct. 9. (AP)—A 35-year-old career of burglary that netted an estimated $80,000 or more in loot from the middlewest was at an end today.

Gus Wagner, 56, of Elmhurst, who was sought by police from Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, ended that career by hanging himself in his cell of the suburban Maywood police station.

Evading arrest for 25 years, he was brought into the hands of the police by his bride of 10 days, Jessie, who last Monday entered the Maywood police station and asked Lieut. Edward C. Feldmann to arrest him because, she said, he had been beating her during their honeymoon and threatening her life.

Volunteering the information that Wagner was a burglar, the bride added detail after detail that led to his arrest. Upon completion of the investigation into his long career of burglary he was to have been taken to Waukegan to face the first of numerous charges.

invited a comparison of it with the version that DNB was circulating. "When such a comparison is made," the White House statement said, "the propaganda objectives of the nazi action become very clear."

A comparison disclosed that the wording of both texts was identical, except for an occasional phrase here and there in the DNB version—and such variations were reported to be due largely to translation.

But the capital was curious about where Berlin got its knowledge of the contents of the letter, which was delivered to Stalin about 10 days ago by Averell Harriman, head of the American aid mission to Moscow.

DNB said it had acquired the letter from the most reliable quarters, but it did not say how.

Reds' Resistance Broken: Hitler

Britain Develops New Type Torpedo; To Be Made in U. S.

Details About Projectiles Carefully Guarded by Officialdom

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—Great Britain has developed a highly secret, new type torpedo which will be manufactured in the United States with money from the second lease-lend fund.

All details about the new underwater projectile are carefully guarded, but its manufacture will require special protective facilities.

Rear Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, chief of the bureau of ordnance, gave a house appropriations subcommittee some information about the new torpedo, but indicated that production could not be started for almost a year.

Although there has been no hint as to how the secret new torpedo would differ from those already in use, naval officials long have talked of the need for torpedoes which would be invisible when fired—that is, which would not leave the wake of telltale air bubbles which sometimes gives surface ships enough warning to enable them to maneuver out of the way.

Another Criticism
Another criticism of present torpedoes is that those fired by compressed air produce a large air bubble on leaving the submarine. When this bubble reaches the surface, it guides destroyers and other anti-submarine craft to the submarine's position for a depth charge attack.

Some naval authorities, warning against underestimating the German U-boat menace because of the recent decline in ship sinkings, have suggested that the nazis may have developed a torpedo that eliminates those objectionable features.

Disclosure of the order for the new British torpedo together with the indication that it differs widely from those now in use led to conjecture that the British, too, may have solved those problems.

Plan Another Plant
In his lease-lend appropriation testimony, Admiral Blandy disclosed that the navy was negotiating for another plant to make torpedoes of the type already in use by the U. S. navy, to supplement the production of the existing torpedo plants at Newport, R. I., and Alexandria, Va.

When asked by committee members whether any of the new type of torpedo would be made at the projected plant, Blandy replied:

"No, Sir; that torpedo does not reach the stage of development where we would attempt to make any of that type now."

Navigation Partially Restored at Sault Ste. Marie Docks This Morn

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 9. (AP)—The Great Lakes' biggest freighters, with passage blocked off locks partially restored, steamed on today with iron ore after two restless days of lying idle.

Toward midnight workmen had cleared aside much of the obstruction to the main locks of the St. Marys Falls canal, and early today the first freighter nosed through the channel eastward—46½ hours delayed.

Opening the way to one of the two main locks, tugs and a boom derrick pulled a submerged locomotive of one arm of a buckled bridge span and made it possible to free the other arm and let the boats through.

The locomotive, carrying two trainmen to death, plunged into the canal when one 165 foot arm of the large bascule bridge collapsed Tuesday.

Shooting Ends 5-Year Romance in Brooklyn

New York, Oct. 9. (AP)—A farewell kiss and three revolver shots marked the end of a five year romance in Brooklyn today.

The girl, a 24-year-old factory worker, was accused of shooting her sweetheart while kissing him goodbye after midnight because he had told her he had found another girl.

While the young man, Gus Scalletta, 27, a navy yard welder, was receiving blood transfusions for critical abdominal wounds, the girl, Mary Cintonia, was booked on a charge of felonious assault and unlawful possession of a weapon.

Patrolmen Hubert Montella and Joseph Manzo said they found her holding his head in her lap and sobbing: "I shot him. He was going to leave me."

Tragedies of Life Leave Sister and Brother Strangers

Detroit, Oct. 9. (AP)—An 8-year-old boy and his sister, 7, eyed each other in Circuit court yesterday, each trying hard to comprehend the tangled skein of separation, divorce and remarriage that made them comparative strangers.

The occasion was a habeas corpus hearing through which the children's mother, Mrs. Camilla Kravisky of Peoria, Ill., sought to reunite her son, Joseph, already in her care, and his sister, Josephine, who is living with a great aunt in Detroit.

Mrs. Kravisky testified that the children were born in Peoria and that while they were still babies she parted from her first husband. Because she was ill, she explained, she permitted an uncle, Harry Hill, and his wife, Hazel, to bring Josephine to Detroit with them.

Never Adopted
The Hills later were divorced, and Mrs. Hill married Leo J. Reilly. Josephine remained with her, although never formally adopted.

Meanwhile the father of the children died and their mother married John Kravisky of Peoria. Since then, Mrs. Kravisky testified, she has sought vainly for Josephine's return. She denied the contention of Mrs. Reilly's attorney that Kravisky was a professional gambler.

After taking the testimony of the plaintiffs in order to permit them to return to Peoria, Circuit Judge George B. Murphy adjourned the hearing until Oct. 29, and Joseph and Josephine, the former with his mother and the latter with the Reillys, left the court room without speaking with each other.

No Evidence of Intent to Swindle in Sale of Peanut Venders: Igoo

Chicago, Oct. 9. (AP)—Declaring he could find no evidence of a crime, Federal Judge Michael L. Igoo today directed verdicts of innocence for 24 men accused by the government of defrauding middle westerners who invested in peanut vending machines.

The dismissals came after a trial which consumed three weeks. Judge Igoo remarked that he couldn't understand why the government obtained the indictment.

"The fact that 16,000 of these machines are now in operation is certainly not indicative of fraud," he said, adding that while the people who put money into the enterprise were to be pitied, there was no proof that the defendants had conspired to swindle them.

Among those dismissed were Bert Davis of Kankakee, Ill.; George R. McFadden of Joliet, Ill.; R. Longenecker of St. Louis. Thirty-one men were named in the original indictment.

Germany Makes Effort to Increase Japanese Interest in the Axis

Shanghai, Oct. 9. (AP)—An increased German effort to strengthen nazi influence in the Far East was forecast today by sources who said they had learned that Berlin had appointed Heinrich Von Ziemer, one of its ex negotiators, as ambassador to the Japanese-sponsored Nanking government.

Experienced observers here and in Tokyo interpreted the Von Ziemer appointment as an indication of Germany's campaign to keep Japan in the axis and make her, if possible, an even more active partner in the war.

Much of the German effort in this part of the world, it was asserted, is directed toward promoting friction in the Pacific, especially in Japan's relations with the United States and Britain.

Russia 'Finished' Says Special High Command Bulletin

Moscow Gives No Hint of Impending Fall of Russ Armies

(By The Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler's military steamroller driving toward Moscow in what the fuhrer described as "the last great, decisive battle of this year," was reported by the Germans today to have broken Russia's power to resist, with 60 to 70 Red army divisions caught in two vast traps west of the soviet capital.

Normally, 60 to 70 divisions would total 1,000,000 troops, but a nazi spokesman said some of the shattered Red units consisted "only of some hundreds of men."

Hitler's press chief declared that "the soviet union is militarily finished," his leadership in chaos, and that the 110-day-old war on the eastern front was all but decided.

Meanwhile, reports circulated in Washington that Panama—whose flag is used by American-owned ships entering belligerent waters—was engulfed in a political upheaval.

Panama City reports said Dr. Arnulfo Arias, president of Panama, had fled.

Claim Russia 'Finished'

German claims that Russia was "finished" came on the eighth day of the vast new offensive against Moscow.

The sensational pronouncement, which was not elaborated by any details of specific land gains, came from Dr. Otto Dietrich arriving in Berlin directly from the fuhrer's eastern front headquarters.

"From the springs of the Volga to the Sea of Azov," he asserted, "remnants of soviet armies everywhere are in retreat."

A special high command bulletin, heralded by a fanfare of trumpets over the German radio, declared Russia's battered Red armies had not a single division left fully for battle on the entire front.

Thousands Face Annihilation

Dr. Dietrich said between 60 and 70 Russian divisions—900,000 to 1,050,000 troops—were hopelessly bottled up in the Bryansk and Vyazma sectors, facing imminent annihilation.

Bryansk is 220 miles southwest of Moscow, Vyazma 125 miles west of the U. S. S. R. capital. They are about 130 miles apart.

To Britain, he added this warning:

"Let the English attempt a landing in Norway, Holland, Belgium or on the French coast and they will learn what reserves we still have."

While the Germans thus proclaimed a climatic turning point in the world's greatest military campaign, the Russians acknowledged they had withdrawn from Orel, key town 68 miles southeast.

Pamela Receives Ice Cream Today

North Conway, N. H., Oct. 9. (AP)—Cheery little Pamela Hollingworth, 5, lost for eight days in a mountain forest, looked forward to eating ice cream today—but it may be some time yet before she returns to her home in Dunstable, Mass.

Her father, Joseph E. Hollingworth, Lowell, Mass., lumber company executive, said she might be moved within a day or two from the hospital here, but that she would be taken to a hospital in Lowell pending her complete recovery.

He said any danger of gangrene developing in her frostbitten feet appeared to have passed, though they still were swollen.

On a liquid diet since a searching party found her Monday, Pamela was promised the ice cream in recognition of the general improvement in her condition.

Senator Wants to Know What Policy of Government Is

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) announced today that Sidney Hillman, associated OPM director, would be summoned before the senate defense investigating committee to explain why a contract had not been let to the low bidder on a Wayne county, Mich., housing project.

Truman told reporters he had been assured by Federal Works Administration officials that no action would be taken to reject the bid of the P. J. Currier Lumber Company of Detroit, whose offer to construct the project was low by $131,000, until Hillman had been heard by the group.

John Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, previously had testified that the award was held up because of the fear of OPM officials that the letting of a contract to Currier, employer of CIO labor, might cause "repercussions" within the AFL.

"We are going to find out what the government's labor policies are on this defense housing program," Truman told reporters. "If these contracts are going to be let on the square, they should be given to the qualified low bidder."

Cost of Travel Goes Up 5 Per Cent Tonight

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—The cost of travel will go up 5 per cent at midnight tonight because of a new federal tax.

The transportation tax was included in the recent big tax bill, but the effective date was made 10 days later than other excise provisions.

The tax is 5 per cent of the amount paid for passenger travel on a railroad, bus line, air line, ship route. Ordinarily it will not apply to local busses and street cars, because tickets costing less than 35 cents are exempt. Taxicabs are exempt, too, because the tax applies only to transportation over regularly scheduled routes.

Abandoned Boy Is Now Back at Boarding Home

Detroit, Oct. 9. (AP)—Four year old Tommy Argo, bright-eyed youngster who made headlines when his father abandoned him in a Chicago zoo, is going back to a boarding home, the only sort of home he has known.

Judge D. J. Healy in juvenile court ordered Tommy placed in a home to be selected by a social agency, to remain under court jurisdiction until the parents, Walter Argo, Detroit truck driver, and Lillian Argo, waitress, proved by something more than promises they were ready, willing and able to make a home.

Green Plans Second Inspection of State

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9. (AP)—Governor Green plans a second inspection tour of the state, but the dates and itinerary are indefinite.

It was expected the governor would visit some of the hospitals and institutions he did not reach on his first ten-day tour early in September. The second tour has been tentatively arranged for this fall.

Eventually, the governor said recently, he expects to visit personally all state parks and institutions.

Slicker

Wilkesburg, Pa., Oct. 9. (AP)—To demonstrate the durability of a $49.50 rug, a furniture store placed it on the sidewalk and invited passersby to walk on it.

Several were doing so when a man in overalls asked them to step aside. He rolled up the rug, raised it to his shoulder and walked away.

At the store's request, police are hunting for him.

Asks Congress to Permit Arming of Merchant Vessels

Roosevelt Sends Special Message to Law Makers on Neutrality Act

Washington, Oct. 9. (AP)—President Roosevelt, asserting it was time for the United States to "stop playing into Hitler's hands, and to unshackle our own," urged congress today to revise the neutrality act so as to permit the arming of American merchant vessels.

In a special message he also left the door open for further revision later to wipe out another major prohibition, that preventing American cargo ships to travel to belligerent ports.

Saying that Adolf Hitler "has offered a challenge which we as Americans can not and will not tolerate," the President said:

"We will not let Hitler prescribe the waters of the world on which our ships may travel. The American flag is not going to be driven from the seas either by his submarines, his airplanes, or his threats."

"We can not permit the affirmative defense of our rights to be annulled and diluted by sections of the neutrality act which have no realism in the light of unscrupulous ambition of madmen."

Course Determined
"We Americans have determined our course."

"We intend to maintain the policy of protecting the freedom of the seas against domination by any foreign power which has become crazed with a desire to control the world. We shall do so with all our strength and all our heart and all our mind."

Administration leaders moved rapidly to implement the President's message, introducing bills in both houses to repeal the neutrality act provision against the arming of American merchant vessels.

Resolutions offered in the senate by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the foreign relations committee and in the house by Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the foreign affairs group would specifically authorize the president during the period of national emergency to arm or permit the arming of American merchantmen.

Roosevelt said it was an "imperative need now to equip American merchant vessels with arms."

Even before the message appeared demands arose in the senate that modification of the law beyond a rescinding of the ban against arming merchantmen.

Opponents Plan Fight
Although the ship-arming amendment was the only one agreed on after two White House legislative conferences, a number of senators favored broadening the legislation to keep American flag vessels from belligerent ports and out of combat zones designated by presidential proclamation.

In the opposing camp, meanwhile, critics of the administration's foreign policy avowed their determination to fight every attempt to amend the law "as being in fact, an authorization to carry on war." Senator Taft (R-Ohio) disclosed that the opposition strategy had been mapped last night at a bipartisan meeting attended by some 60 members of congress.

Roosevelt started writing his special message after a conference with both Democrat and Republican legislative leaders yesterday and it was read in both

Will Distribute Master's Duties

Judge George C. Dixon stated today that a successor to the late Attorney Elwin M. Bunnell as master-in-chancery for Lee county will not be appointed at this time. From time to time, as the services of such an officer become necessary, a special master will be appointed in each case, Judge Dixon said.

Thus, it will be possible to pass the honor around and divide the fees among numerous members of the bar who are well qualified to perform the duties of the office, which duties usually consist only of advertising and conducting sales of land in foreclosure and partition suits, and distributing the proceeds.

This plan has been thoroughly tried in several of the large counties in Illinois, Judge Dixon stated, and has proven very satisfactory. He cited McLean, Kankakee and Macon counties, all larger than Lee county, where the plan is practiced.

A Thought for Today

Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin.—John 8:34.

Sin is a state of mind, not an outward act.—Sewell.

Why They Abolished God

Better understanding of the controversy over religion in Russia can be had if we study the history behind the argument.

The truth is that in Russia, God was blamed for the excesses of the Russian church, of which Czar Nicholas was head.

For many years the Russian people were forced to accept a church dominated by the state. It is only natural that when a state gets control of the church exclusively, it uses the church to foster its own interests. The church becomes a political wheel horse. Priests can not serve two masters.

Inevitably the Russian church abused its hold on the confidence of the people. It gave lip service to religion, but went over to politics. Scripture was made to support the gang of leeches that fed on the life blood of the people.

Religion, say the communists, is an opiate for the people. They were judging all religion and God, by what they had seen in Russia. Priests catering to wealthy idlers and bureaucrats of the czar's regime couldn't do much to alleviate suffering caused by misgovernment; but they could and did promise the people something better in the life beyond the grave. In effect, they said, "Have patience, good people. Some day you will be dead, and will be happy in Heaven."

With some justice, therefore, the communists despised the political priests when they rebelled and seized power from the czar. Stalin, ignorant of religion as practiced in other countries, judged all religion and all priests by the political creations he encountered in his campaigns against the established order.

So the communists abolished God. They abolished Christ. They abolished the church. Churches in Russia were turned into atheistic museums. Some were used for granaries. Priests were hunted down and murdered. Even the smaller priests, who had ideals and were only cogs in the political machine, were proscribed. It became illegal to feed them, to shelter or clothe them or give them employment. They starved and died, and the communists boasted about it.

So far did the communists go in abolishing religion that they also abolished some of the moral customs held not only by the church in Russia, but by churches in other lands. Marriage was made easy. Divorce became even easier. Promiscuous relations were encouraged and the country became infested with children who could not trace their ancestry even to their own fathers. Some did not, and even today do not know their own mothers. They were wards of an atheistic state.

So great was the outcry in other lands against Russian atheism and immorality that the present czar, Stalin, made some concessions. Also the virtual abolition of marriage did not work out as well as had been expected. It created too many problems. The new Russian constitution "recognized" freedom of religion. But it will be generations before the young wolves of uncertain parentage, and with no church background, can be tamed and made into orthodox citizens with respect for God and authority.

Russia may be on the way back to God, but the country today is no place for a "prayer meetin'."

It Never Reigns, but It Bores

Today we nominate for Forgotten Man: His Highness Aimone, Duke of Spoleto and King of Croatia.

Last May, after the Germans had conquered the Jugo-Slavs, they allowed Italy to set up a puppet state in their territory. It was to be one of those sub-colonial dependencies of the New Order in Europe, and the Italians were to be allowed the privilege of holding it down. The House of Savoy furnished the Duke of Spoleto as head holder-downer, called "King."

That was in mid-May. But things aren't going so well in the "Kingdom of Croatia." There are a lot of Serbs there who don't want any part of "King Aimone," and they're saying it with bombs. Four months, and you and I and everybody had forgotten that this man had been proclaimed a king at all. Another 10 months and he may have forgotten it himself.

"V" in Venezuela

The "V" movement is strong in Venezuela. Not the one you've been hearing about in connection with the war.

This one started in 1938, and it is the Venezuelan equivalent of the widespread "4-H" Clubs for American farm youth. Instead of the familiar "Head, Heart, Hands, Health" that form a rallying point for rural youth in the north, Venezuelan youth have their "5-V" Clubs. To them the Five Vs stand for Valor (courage), Vigor (vigor), Verdad (truth), Verguenza (modesty), and for their native Venezuela. In Puerto Rico, too, 7200 are now enrolled in similar clubs, while Cuba, too has its "5-C" Clubs: Cerebro head, Corazon (heart), Cooperacion (co-operation), Civismo (civic spirit), and Cuba.

Thus it is pleasant to note that an American youth movement which has done so much for the free development of rural youth, is spreading among the Good Neighbors to the south, and spreading not as an insidious penetration, but as a spontaneous and parallel development.

Scientists say anger impairs vision. Probably why people get so mad they can't see straight.

Washington

Hugh S. Johnson Writes From Capital During Mallon's Illness

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON (Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Oct. 9.—Whatever else may be said about it, there was some consistency in the neutrality legislation when our policy was to keep out of the war in Europe and, to that end, it forbade the risking of American lives, property and dollars in combat zones.

But when that policy was completely reversed in the lease-lend act, and the president was authorized in his sole discretion to risk both American property and dollars in unprecedented amounts whenever and wherever on the broad service of the globe he decided, the neutrality acts became obsolete. They know only serve to create an added danger of risk to the sacrifice we are making.

Once the foundation in which they rested is pulled out from under them it is hard to see any difference between their outright repeal and some piecemeal monkey business this side of that.

Arming merchant ships is an expedient of very little value. It now takes too much technical equipment and crew to make it very effective against submarines and especially against combined submarine and aircraft attack. We haven't got either the equipment or the trained men to make more than a gesture at effective armament.

While the presence of a couple of cannon on board might make a submarine a little more wary, it would also make it much more apt to attack without any warning whatever.

Anyway, there is a good deal of hokum about getting congressional authority to arm merchant ships. It is pretty well understood in Washington that we have already armed several and that the most recently torpedoed merchantman was one of these.

The first real question is whether American flag ships shall be permitted to sail into combat areas. That also has been done. The suggestion of Senator Pepper that we can get around the prohibition of the neutrality act on that by simply having the president un-proclaim his own proclaimed combat zones and say that what palpably is a combat zone is really not one, is nothing short of immoral. If we are going to lift this ban, let's do it honestly by repealing that provision of the neutrality act.

Then comes another question, far more vital. After we have lifted the ban and an American flag ship, conveying contraband of war is sunk while trying to crash an area under actual blockade, does that mean we are automatically at war?

Technically it would not, under the old doctrine of international law. What it would mean today the Lord only knows. It would depend a good deal on popular reaction and what the real foreign policy of this government is. If that policy is to get into the war now or as soon as popular opinion is sufficiently hysterical, it would doubtless mean a war, traceable straight back to the repeal of the neutrality act. But that is really quibbling over a technicality. If this government wants to go to war now, it can find other means of drumming up the necessary emotions—repeal or not.

It is hard to see what we have to gain by getting into the war now. We are not yet ready for it. More important still, it is hard to see what Britain has to gain by our getting into war now. That is more important, because we seem to do about what Britain wants. But why should she want this now? We are sending her all the supplies we can deliver and have promised her far more. With the apparent consent of most of our people. But, if we get into this war ourselves, our shipments abroad will be much more closely scanned and our people will demand a far greater share for our own defense and armament.

On these considerations, it seems that a filibuster against repeal of the neutrality act would be very unpopular in this country. In the end it could do no good. The meaning it could do much harm. This column is not and never has been for unnecessary involvement in this war.

It is for an impregnable American defense and superiority on all fronts—in the air, on sea and land, economically and on the home front—the preservation of civilian morale and of our business system.

It feels that we are weakening these defenses on several of these

MURDER IN PARADISE

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1941, BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

THE STORY: Friendly, high-spirited Maudie O'Connor, her Scottie, Flan McCool, and her school teacher daughter, Mary, enjoy a week of quiet vacation at Paradise Lake before their discovery of the murdered body of sophisticated Herbert Cord spells trouble. Instead of phoning the police from elderly Chris Gordon's inn, Maudie goes on to the home of prim Miss Millie Morris and the pretty niece, Jeanie Morris, whom local reporters had believed engaged to Cord until he came in the lake this year with a dancer, Margie Dixon. Both Miss Millie and Jeanie had reason to hate Cord. Mary, the next day, wonders about a lucky piece her mother has acquired.

MARGIE VS. JEANIE

CHAPTER IV

IT was just as well that I had come for the mail because the little white frame inn on the beach at the end of the grove was anything but a scene of rustic quiet. The room where one could get ice cream and pop was doing a rushing business. Cottagers who ordinarily only came on a Saturday night were there now and it wasn't even noon. Maudie would have had a field day. I shuddered to think of the dynamite she might have planted.

I collected the papers and some letters and started out when Dr. Orway got up from a table near the door and came toward me. We sat down and he asked me how I felt.

"My knees still shake when I think of last night," I confessed, "and being only human, I'm wondering about a lot of things. This is my first contact with a murder, and I don't think I enjoy it, but my feminine curiosity is bothering me."

"We're all curious," he said with that old-fashioned country doctor courtesy that went with his bushy iron gray hair and kind but piercing gray eyes. "Murder," he said briefly. "He was shot. The police have the bullet and it will be examined, but until they find the weapon they won't have much to go on. A nasty business," he added, shaking his head.

"Did he have any known enemies?" I tried not to act too curious.

"He's been coming here for about three years, but despite that no one seems to know a lot about him. He was congenial—liked to fish; sailed a bit in the races when someone wanted an extra man; danced, which made him popular with the women; played a good game of cards, and was accepted because Jeanie cared for him."

"Well, Jeanie must have known him better than anyone else around here—that is, except Miss Dixon, who's collapsed. Made a lot of wild accusations. Hysterical, of course, but damaging."

"You mean things that would involve Jeanie?" My hunch had been right, then. That brown-haired child with blue eyes would be hurt.

He nodded. "I've known her since she was a little girl in pig-tails," he said. "Miss Millie was always a strict woman. Well intentioned, but she never remembered that girls grow up and want something besides weekly teas with a group of old people." He pulled out his old-fashioned silver watch and looked at it. "Going to the inquest, I suppose?"

I SAID I hadn't been told to go, but I supposed both Maudie and I would be called since we had found the body. He left then, but I stayed a few moments, sipping my gingerale and listening to the broken threads of conversation around me.

"You heard them arguing," a pretty girl, deeply tanned, said. "I was right there with you. Herb wanted to invite Jeanie to a picnic he and Margie were planning. Jeanie was in the other room buying some cigarets and Margie was telling Herb not to ask her to go. I remember she said to him, 'What are you trying to do, play one against the other?' Herb laughed and asked her if she was jealous and Margie certainly didn't think that was funny."

The rest of the crowd at the table nodded in agreement. "Then Jeanie came back," she continued, "and Herb asked her if she could be ready by 10 o'clock. . . . Why, that would be this morning, wouldn't it? Jeanie looked a bit surprised, and before she could answer Margie told her off."

"I hope you won't think I'm rude, dear," she said in that drawing tone she uses when she wants to impress us, "but I sort of want Herbert all to myself tomorrow. Jeanie got white, and Herb became simply furious. I'd never seen him really mad before, but he was mad then and he and Margie said some nasty things to each other and Jeanie stood a moment just looking at them. Then she went away. She never said a word, but she didn't look like herself, and of course she knew everyone had heard what they had said."

And everyone had heard what the tanned, leggy thing had said, too, I decided, looking around the room.

"Miss Millie'll put the clamps on her tighter than ever after this," one of the boys said.

"Say maybe the old woman's breaking down," another of the girls added. "Dick and I were coming home last night about 11 and lo and behold, who do we see but Miss Millie walking along the road toward home. In that long black skirt she looked like a witch."

"If you saw all that on Pine road, then Dick must be losing his technique," someone else said, and the whole group burst into laughter.

OVER behind the little counter that served as a bar I noticed that Chris Gordon, the hotel owner, wasn't smiling. I suppose he got rather tired of summer romances and these flip young things who either roared up and down the quiet roads or parked in the shadows. He probably wasn't any too pleased either about the murder of one of his guests. He advertised the inn as being quiet and restful and murder wouldn't do that at all.

I picked up the letters and remembered we needed stamps. I went up to him and while he was picking them from the cigar box under the desk I asked him how Miss Dixon was feeling. "It must have been a decided shock to her," I said. "It was to me and I didn't even know the man."

"You and your mother found him, didn't you?" he asked, and I noticed that despite his calmness he was having a time picking those sticky bits of paper apart as he counted them out.

"Yes," I said, and then, "There'll be an inquest, I suppose? Motives, cause of death, suspects, clues—"

"Guess the police haven't much to go on." He gave me the stamps and fished around for change.

"Oh, things always turn up," I said. "Once they learn about the man—I mean his background—why, the police usually get a lead." I sounded very smug and knowing. "I mean in other murders that's the way it works out. They always find clues—insignificant things we wouldn't bother with."

He didn't seem disposed to talk and he still hadn't answered my question about Margie Dixon. I suppose he had been pestered by dozens already today and I felt a little ashamed at my own display of curiosity. Maudie herself couldn't have been more nosy.

I thought, going back to the cottage, but I didn't have long to consider my own reactions because when I arrived I found Maudie giving an interview to a young man. She was telling him all about her discovery of Herbert Cord's body.

Piano Concert to Be Event of Monday Evening

Flattering press notices follow recital appearances of Miss Stella Hecker, noted Elgin pianist, who will be heard in concert here Monday evening at the Loveland Community House, under auspices of the Troubadette women's chorus.

The following excerpts are from a review of a program presented by Miss Heckman in mid-August at the DeGoy B. Ellis home in Elgin:

"Always a brilliant musician, she has glorified her rich heritage of musical culture by combining her fine personality with it. With a keen sense of humor, she intersperses her music with anecdotes of the composer—then in serious mood, makes the old masters live again."

"There is something vital about Miss Hecker's playing. Whether it is the fine intimacy between her and the piano or her thorough understanding of her art, it is difficult to say, but she possesses both. One can but marvel at her artistry. There is always a delightful element of surprise in her performances, for she so rapidly changes from lilting melodies and dances to more serious and dramatic works."

The public is invited to attend Monday evening's program, which is scheduled for 8 o'clock. Afterward, the sponsors will entertain with an informal reception and refreshments.

Ogle County Woman Nears 102

Mrs. Margaret Ellen Hiestand

Mrs. Hiestand, who is believed to be Ogle county's oldest resident, will quietly observe her 102nd birthday anniversary on Saturday at her home in Leaf River. Because infirmities of old age have confined her to her bed only recently, no celebration is being planned, and few callers can be received. The aged woman's niece, Mrs. Carrie Hodge, of Pine City, Minn., is expected to be present for the anniversary.

Mrs. Hiestand was born Oct. 11, 1839, in Lancaster, Ohio, and is the last of a family of 13 children. When nine months old, she came to Illinois in a covered wagon with her parents, Isaac and Caroline (Hammond) Eavey.

Her grandfather was a slave-holder at Hagerstown, Md. Her last debate at Freeport, she could "run candles" before she was old enough to go to school. She studied at the Old Standstone Academy at Mt. Morris, which her father helped build, and once attempted to organize an art class in Dixon.

The Indian chieftain, Black Hawk, had been exiled from Illinois only a few years when the Eaveys came to Illinois to settle south of Egan. Her father broke his land by wooden plows and iron shares, drawing by horses and oxen.

She was baptized by the Rev. Samuel Hitt, who came to Mt. Morris in 1836 and was actively interested in Rock River Seminary. Members of her family were always staunch supporters of the United Brethren church.

During her girlhood, she made beautiful wax pieces, which she sold at prices ranging from $1 to $12. She purchased sheets of wax in white and colors, and covered crosses with wreaths, besides making bouquets of flowers. Hoping to form an art class in Dixon, she made a number of samples which she sold here, but failed to organize a study group.

She attempted to enlist as a nurse during the Civil war, but was prevented from carrying out her plans because of parental disapproval. She was 42 years old when she became the bride of the Rev. Jacob Hiestand, a retired United Brethren minister. His death occurred in 1889.

Mrs. than 40 years ago, Mrs. Hiestand moved to Leaf River from Adeline. Until recently, her general physical condition has been more than good for one of her age.

White tapers were lighted in two candelabra at the altar, which was screened with white chrysanthemums, ferns and palms.

Pink and blue appointments were used at the reception, held at the Zollinger home, following the ceremony. A wreath of small flowers circled the wedding cake. Miss Muriel Randall assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. C. G. LeMasurier cut the cake, and Mrs. Elroy Budrow and Mrs. Douglas Howlett poured.

Following the reception, Mr. Randall and his bride left on a ten-day wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. For traveling, this morning's bride chose a plaid wool dress. Her shoulder corsage contained gardenias.

Iron and Steel Scrap Under Full Priority

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson, director of priorities of the OPM, today placed iron and steel scrap under full priority control.

The OPM said the action was taken to avert a situation which it said threatened to shut down or curtail the operation of steel mills, working at full capacity on defense orders, and relieve serious day to day shortages.

OPM steel officials indicated the action was expected to prevent hoarding scrap and would permit Nelson to take excess supplies from mills which report excess amounts of scrap on hand.

Russia 'Finished'

Civilians in Red Ranks

Russian civilians were reported fighting shoulder-to-shoulder with Red army soldiers to stem the Nazi smash toward Moscow.

A German pilot said snow was falling behind the front lines.

"The German command is throwing into the battle division after division," a Soviet bulletin said.

"Our units are putting up fierce resistance to the fascist troops and are striking heavy blows at the enemy."

London military quarters described the battle as the fiercest of the war, but said that there was every reason to believe that Russian morale had been stiffened by Hitler's tempestuous new assault, and that there was no confirmation of any encirclement actually having been carried out.

Fighting in Far East

Fighting in the Far East became more widespread.

Japanese army sources in Shanghai said the greatest offensive of the Chinese army in four and a quarter years of warfare apparently is under way.

The principal Chinese objective was Ichang, a central Yangtze river port.

The Chinese have announced that five strategic points around Ichang were captured and that the Japanese position there was precarious.

With the Japanese press again showing criticism of the United States for the second straight day, sources in Shanghai forecast an increased German effort to strengthen Nazi influence in the Far East.

Two Cargo Vessels Daily Within Year Commission's Aim

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Vessels for the new merchant fleet will be launched at the rate of two a day within a year, the National Safety Congress and Exposition was told today by J. F. McInnis, naval architect for the U. S. Maritime Commission.

By December cargo carrying ships will be sliding down the ways at the rate of one a day and before the end of 1942 the program anticipates construction of 1,383 ships, McInnis said in his prepared remarks.

"This is truly a national safety program," he said. "Self-sufficiency as this nation is there are certain raw materials essential for our existence as a major power which lie far beyond our borders."

To keep the sea lanes open, to insure the flow of such materials to our shores x x x is truly a requisite for the preservation of our national existence."

A traffic expert told the commercial vehicle section that the nation could no longer countenance traffic congestion and the irresponsible and unskilled driver in view of the national emergency.

"Traffic congestion which has long caused delay and exasperation becomes intolerable when it interferes with national defense transport," said L. S. Harris, executive director of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

State Commission Members Called to Rockford Inquiry

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Two members of the Illinois state liquor control commission, Secretary William M. Devine and Charles J. Fleck, were summoned to appear before the grand jury today to tell what was wrong with conditions in Rockford's liquor establishments.

The two members of the commission were served with subpoenas yesterday when they were investigating why Rockford was the single exception to confidential reports of the commission's staff men that conditions in liquor establishments near army and navy posts were satisfactory.

States Attorney Max A. Weston of Winnebago county, who issued the subpoena, said the city was indignant over the commission's report and asserted that Rockford maintained standards as high as other municipalities near posts.

Devine said in a statement Tuesday that "Rockford presents an unusual picture, according to confidential reports of our staff men. While there are no specific details to report, the commission has decided that it would be best for Commissioner Charles J. Fleck and myself to make a personal inspection."

Knox regrets work time lost in U. S. by plant accidents.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—In the time lost in accidents to American workers last night, Secretary Knox regrets, industry could have produced a fleet of heavy bombing airplanes 21 times the size of that Britain is using in its war on Germany.

The navy secretary, addressing the 30th annual national safety congress and exposition last night, pleaded for renewed efforts to reduce accidents among defense workers because the United States is "the final and most important item on the Nazi agenda of unfinished business."

Man Hours Lost
The billion and a half man-hours lost last year through work accidents, he said, were sufficient to build 45 battleships, 375 destroyers, 450 submarines, 195,000 light tanks, 12,500 trainer planes, 75,000 fighter planes, 30,000 medium bombers, or 15,000 heavy bombers.

"And to illustrate how large a number that is," Knox continued, "Britain is carrying on its aerial war on Germany with 700 heavy bombers."

Discussing time lost in strikes, Knox said he did not countenance defense strikes and "any attempt either by labor or capital to gain unreasonable profit at the expense of the nation's security has my bitterest condemnation."

GOPHERS UNEASY ABOUT MEETING ILLINI SATURDAY

"Unpredictable" Is The Word for Coach Bob Zuppke

Chicago, Oct. 9—(AP)—Unpredictable. That's the word for Bob Zuppke any time. It's also a word fitted especially to his current Illinois football team.

Wary. That's Coach Bernie Bierman and the Minnesota Gophers. Illinois will play the Gophers Saturday at Minneapolis. The Illini are rated 'way down the list of Big Ten teams. Minnesota is at the top of the roll of title contenders. The Gophers are strictly the favorites Saturday. But many a favorite has felt uneasy at the prospect of meeting Zuppke's Illini.

Bernie Bierman, who scouted Illinois last week, tells his players:

"You have to be alert and on your toes or you're going to get licked."

Weight Advantage

He knows Minnesota will have a respectable weight advantage on Illinois, so he warns the Gophers: "Illinois has speed clear through the squad. If you big fellows in the line don't get off your marks faster, those Illinois forwards will roll you right back on your heels."

A Bierman-coached Minnesota team never has played Illinois. Yet Bernie knows Zuppke. He saw Illinois Saturday. He says: "That team can really handle the ball. It's tricky, very much air-minded and really likes to battle."

At Champaign the boys are aching for a win.

"We're better, sure," says Zup. "We have more dangerous backs. But I don't know what to expect. I don't know anything about Minnesota and I don't know too much about Illinois. But one thing we know—they've been tested and we haven't."

Illustrative of the weight differences between Illini and Gophers is the case at one tackle, Elmer Engel of Illinois, weight 190, must face Urban Odson of Minnesota, weight 247.

"I don't care," says Engel, informed of the 57-round edge Odson carries. "Bring him on."

Wisconsin heralds the possibility of a better showing against Northwestern Saturday in the words of Coach Harry Stuhldreher—"If fortune falls our way we may make amends for our sad start. I think we'll be in better condition this week-end than last."

Michigan will entertain Pitt Saturday and is the second of four Western Conference teams that the easterners have on their schedule this year. Last week Purdue took the Panthers, 6 to 0. A week from Saturday Pitt will meet Minnesota and Nov. 1 Ohio State.

Inactive list: Iowa, its players being shifted from end to end in preparation for Wisconsin a week hence; Purdue, beset by injuries with Ohio State nine days away; Ohio State, just getting over its train legs after the trip to Southern California, with Purdue next on Oct. 18.

New York, Oct. 9—(The Special News Service)—Here are some guys who ought to sympathize with Mickey Owen and the Dodgers... Forrest Main, a pitcher for Idaho Falls in the Pioneer League, had a no-hitter against Boise with two out in the ninth when Jack Radtke bounced an easy one and Shelly McConnell, the second sacker, fell down trying to make the throw... The scorer finally had to call it a hit... Up in Minnesota the Delano and Nowthen teams were rained out in an amateur league playoff game. They heard there was a dry field ten miles away, so players, crowd and all drove over. The field was almost flooded but the fans pitched in and helped drain it, then just as the game started a cloudburst came along.

Today's Guest Star
Carter (Scoop) Latimer, Greenville, (S. C.) News: "Mickey's miff of that third-out strike saved the American people at least a million bucks that would have been spent on tickets, drinks, etc., for the sixth game at the stadium."

Local papers are blasting the N. Y. Boxing Commission for suspending Ray Carlen and Willie Gilsonberg for letting their fighters coast... They want to know if it's good strategy to say "go in there and get your block knocked off"... Joe Gould is offering Red Cochran $15,000 to fight young Kid McCoy for the welter title either here or in Detroit... Frankie Frisch is all worked up about Vincent Smith, the Pirates' rookie catcher... Johnny Colan, the middleweight swatter, will jump in with the heavyweights against Buddy Knox at Chicago.

A Y's Move
The football rule makers have forbidden Ossie Solem's "Y" formation in which the center faces the backfield. Maybe they thought Ossie had the guy sitting on the ball to hatch out some trick plays... Army scouts report that Earl Blaik has some nice big plebs coming up now that the physical restrictions have been loosened... When major Swede Larson, the navy coach, found his players too much on edge just before they opened the season against William and Mary, he bought the loudest paid vest he could find and wore it into the dressing room. Just before the game, Swede said: "Now boys, let's take our coats off and get down to business," and unveiled the sartorial masterpiece. The boys laughed so hard they forgot about being nervous.

Argentine Butter and Egg Imports Mounting Rapidly

Chicago, Oct. 9—(AP)—Butter from Argentina is entering the United States in rapidly increasing quantities and the first trickle of Argentine eggs is arriving, Department of Commerce and private trade statistics disclosed today.

Department of Commerce figures did not show the importation of a solitary egg or one pat of butter two years ago. Today the mounting imports would make a gigantic omelette.

Higher prices in the American market attracted Argentine dairy products. With quotations the highest for this time of year since 1929, Argentine producers found they could ship their output and sell at a profit despite tariff duties.

Last year American imports of Argentine butter totaled 243,582 pounds. This year, however, the inflow of butter already has far exceeded all last year. In the first six months of 1941 imports reached 497,851 pounds. Reports to the Chicago Mercantile Exchange indicate an additional 1,184,669 pounds had entered in the last three months.

Even this is considered small in comparison with what is expected. Trade sources estimate that within the next few weeks between 2,240,000 and 2,800,000 pounds will land in New York.

Argentine butter is of good quality, trade sources said. The tariff is 14 cents a pound. Reports are that imports this week have been offered in New York at 35 1/2 to 36 1/2 cents a pound.

Department of Commerce figures show no egg imports from Argentina in 1939, 1940 or the first six months of 1941.

In the last three months however, 1,043,824 cases or 4,985,000 dozen Argentine eggs have been imported. The U. S. State Department was due in New York today with 24,927 additional cases.

The import duty on Argentine eggs is 5 cents a dozen. They correspond to domestic storage packed first and were offered in New York this week at 26 1/2 to 27 1/2 cents a dozen.

Following the ceremony, a three course dinner was served, the centerpiece being a large three-tiered wedding cake.

Old Maid Sisters Live With Bodies of 3 Loved Ones

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 9—(AP)—The Jacksonville Journal in a copyrighted story told of two old maid sisters who have lived more than 16 years with the unburied bodies of their father, another sister and a negro servant.

Reporter Leigh Culley wrote that he located the crumbling home of the old women—once part of the exclusive Pinehurst Seminary—deep in some pine woods about 20 miles south of here, saw the body of the servant and was told the rest of the story by Mrs. William P. Bacheller of Newport, R. I., only living sister of the eccentric pair.

Culley wrote that Mrs. Bacheller gave him this account: Elvert Anhorn came to Florida in 1852 with three daughters, Gertrude, Minnie and Fannie. Mrs. Bacheller had been adopted in Rhode Island and remained there.

The sisters operated the seminary from 1890 to 1918. Anhorn died in 1921, the old servant in 1923 and Fannie in 1925.

Body Well Preserved

The bodies of the man and his daughter were sealed in metal caskets and kept in the home where the aging sisters guarded them with loaded guns. The servant's body was placed in a wooden casket and this was put in an outbuilding a little distance from the home. Culley said he examined this body and found it amazingly well preserved.

Mrs. Bacheller recently placed 74-year-old Gertrude in a rest home at St. Augustine but had not been able to persuade 68-year-old Minnie to leave.

Mrs. Bacheller explained that her sisters had planned to return the bodies to Switzerland from which the family emigrated in the early 1800's.

Gertrude, she said, never would bury anything she loved—"not even a rabbit".

Helen Morgan, Star of Torch Vocalists, Dies During Night

13 Blood Transfusions Fail to Save Life of Famed Singer

Chicago, Oct. 9—(AP)—Helen Morgan, whose name was synonymous with tearful love ballads ever since she starred in Flo Ziegfeld's "Show Boat" 15 years ago, died last night.

The 41-year-old torch singer, stricken last month while in Chicago for a theatrical engagement, had been in critical condition since an operation Sept. 25 for removal of the spleen. She was given 13 blood transfusions and had been unconscious for several days.

Her husband, Lloyd Johnson, wealthy Los Angeles automobile dealer whom she married July 27, and her mother, Mrs. Lulu Morgan of High Falls, N. Y., were at her bedside in Henrotin hospital when she died.

Miss Morgan, a Danville, Ill., girl who once clerked in a Chicago department store, climbed atop a piano to sing her way to fame in the fabulous 1920's, years of free spending, extravagant theatrical productions, speakeasies and night clubs.

Reaches Stardom
She reached Broadway stardom after singing in minor cabarets in Chicago, winning a beauty contest in Montreal and obtaining encouragement from a Chicago theatrical critic to test her talent in New York.

Her first hit was in the musical revue, "Americana", in 1926 but was remembered most as the original Julie, sobbing and singing "My Bill" and "Can't Help Loving That Man of Mine" in "Show Boat". She played the same role in motion picture versions.

Ziegfeld hired her to appear in "Sally" and her husky, sad vocalizing and personality caught on. She later appeared in "George White Scandals", "The Ziegfeld Follies", and "Sweet Adeline".

Her Helen Morgan Club, a luxurious dawn spot near the Broadway theatrical district, was the scene of one of the most exciting raids of the dry era. She was acquitted of a charge of maintaining a nuisance and the agents were ordered to pay for the damage.

On May 15, 1933, she secretly married Maurice (Budy) Maschke, Jr., Cleveland attorney. She divorced him in 1935.

New Positions in State Institutions Called Experiment

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9—(AP)—State Welfare Director Rodney H. Brandon announces that personnel officers had been appointed at eight state institutions to supervise employment.

The new positions were created as an experiment, Brandon said, to relieve hospital managing officers of personnel problems and to provide the welfare department director with liaison agents. All of the eight appointees are local Republican party leaders.

Conceding that the new personnel agents would be the instrumental in carrying out Governor Green's order to discharge civil service employees who were politically active last year, Brandon said that the officers also would be responsible for retaining efficient employees.

"While civil service employees are hired, of course, direct from the civil service rolls at Springfield, we are endeavoring as much as possible to restore some degree of local autonomy to the institutions," Brandon said. "The new personnel officers will deal with employment disputes which formerly took up the time of managing officers."

Recent Appointments

Those appointed recently as personnel officers were: George Storey of Washington, Ill., Tazewell county Republican chairman, Peoria state hospital.

George Wiemer, San Jose, Mason county Republican chairman, Jacksonville state hospital.

George P. Perrine, Aurora, 11th district Republican state central committeeman, Elgin state hospital.

Noble Johnson, Paxton, former Ford county Republican chairman, Manteno state hospital.

Robert Sterling, Dixon, Dixon state hospital.

Robert L. Gerds, Chicago, Chicago state hospital at Duquoin.

Charles J. Smith, Moline, East Moline state hospital.

Alvin C. Rohm, Edwardsville attorney, Alton state hospital.

Brandon said that, for the time being, the officers were being appointed only for the larger institutions.

Strike-Closed Mines Can Make Up Output

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 9—(AP)—Pennsylvania hard coal mines, idle during a walkout last month, will be allowed to make up the production deficit with increased quotas provided they have a market for the additional output. The Anthracite Emergency Committee said today.

Each hard coal mine in this state is allotted a certain quota by the committee each week on a voluntary plan that was instituted to stabilize the market nearly two years ago.

A protest walkout of 20,000 miners increased union dues and assessments compelled a loss of 17 or 18 working days last month and the mines affected piled up a deficiency in their quotas.

THOR'S DAY THUNDERHEADS

... oh! oh! Mrs. John Shultz received a letter Tuesday from her son, Bill, who is now attending the University of Wisconsin... that night when gal friend Eileen Finney called up the Shultz home to learn the news content of the letter, Mrs. Shultz read it to her over the phone... coming to one part in the letter she stumbled over the writing and read: "Went to the game with Margaret... it was awful!"... "course everyone was a little confused... wondering who in thunder Margaret is... but looking the letter over again, and seeing her mistake, Mrs. Shultz called Eileen again and read (correctly)... "Went to the game with Marquette... it was awful!"...

... git along, little nag... the Rock River Valley Horseman and Trail Ride association is sponsoring another trail ride... October 19 from Morrison... Dixon members of the association who wish to make the trip are asked to inform Arthur Keithahn, secretary...

... indoor sports... Athletic Director A. C. Bowers is instructing his gym classes at the high school in the fine points of Volley ball... two games going at one time... each kid trying to out-yell the others... accepting a challenge from the F. F. A. chapter's team the other night, the Bowers' gym class outfit gave the challengers an awful drubbing...

... bowling "bawls"... with pins costing 40 per cent more, the boys didn't have much mercy on Papa Dash with all the pin-busting going on... the lumber took some rough treatment from Ed Worley who shot high game of 246 and Harold Dockery with his 245... of course, Daschbach can't be too injured... he counted a 245 game himself... Dash had eight in a row and picked a cherry in the ninth and blew the last frame... hmmm... Eddie Uebel counts by tens and last night recorded 124-134-144... at that rate his Court House mates should expect him to score a 294 after 15 games or at the end of five weeks... Vincent Oehl was the most consistent last night with games of 154-153-152... dropping a pin each game... repeaters were F. Loeschner with 135 twice... and Wadsworth with 145-145...

... table tennis teams... managers and officers of the Table Tennis League will meet tonight at the Elks club... they'll put their noggin's together to figure out the team rosters for the season which opens next Tuesday night... players will be seeded according to their ability this year... more fair for all...

... football witnesses... Mae Louise Eichler, Hank Johnson, John Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Rogers, Fritz Hofmann and Fanfare will attend the Wisconsin-Northwestern game in Evanston Saturday... just in case you want to check on goings-and-comings...

... names make news... Cub Fan Bob Hill and Sox Fan Earl James met yesterday in the bank... of all places... and each upheld his end of the City Series argument... Earl with a "pooh-pooh on the Cubs"... Hill with the retort: "The Sox were just lucky..."

... people-who-know-people-who-know-people-etc... Vivian Stiles once attended a Detroit Tigers game... when it got too cold in the stands she was offered Mickey Cochran's sports jacket... and she knew a gal who knew Hank Greenberg... ain't it a wonderfully bright and exciting world?

... note to papas and mammas of Wanda and Beatrice... if Wanda Walder and Beatrice Thomas are doing any horseback riding at Cornell college, this will interest their parents... before the college authorities allow any of the gals to ride, they require parents to sign waivers on all claims for damages which may ensue... insisting that the students ride horseback at their own risk... one parent wrote back this week a little note which set the college authorities back a bit... knowing the propensities of his daughter, this father wrote that he would waive all claims against the college... providing that the college would likewise waive all claims on behalf of the horse...

... rainy day recollections... ten years ago tomorrow (Oct. 10)... Dixon took the lead in the North Central Illinois football conference against a much heavier Belvidere team... winning by a score of 19 to 0... the Dixon lightweights won, 6 to 0... varsity lineup included: Strong, lg; Wolfe, captain and lt; Crabtree, lg; F. Kennedy, c; Bates, rg; Ruppert, rt; Lambert, re; Fordham, qb; Lightner, lb; McReynolds, rh; Daniels, fb; McReynolds made two touchdowns, Strong made one...

John "Flash" Fischer, a new business man at Rochelle has a record of adventure... for several years he participated in the famous Indianapolis Memorial Day 500-mile auto race... he was a riding mechanic... later he was graduated into the drivers division and performed many death-defying maneuvers with midget racers all over the country...

... oh, where's Philbert?... "Philbert", the prized bunny charm of Yankee Fan Doc Dwyer, is soon to be replaced... according to authorities close to headquarters... the owner used a hammer during the stress of the game won by Dem Bums from Brooklyn... and Philbert's charms were no more... a successor is now being sought... and if you should see a light in a marble orchard these nights, it might be one of your friends looking for the hind left leg of a deceased hob-tail... some wagers are also to be doled out to some who were confident that the Yanks would NOT take four straight... as Philbert's owner was so sure they would...

DAWSON SAYS TULANE JUST TRYING TO GET ALONG

Atlanta, Oct. 9 —(AP)—Tulane's not great, but just a football team trying to get along, said Coach Red Dawson today as he and his boys headed Texasward for Saturday's game with Rice Institute and their third intercollegiate battle in as many weeks. "We haven't any high-falootin' ideas like some people seem to have that we're a great team," declared Dawson. "We're just a football team doing the best we can." Last year Tulane's up-and-down team took Rice by a score of 15-6, but Dawson wouldn't predict the same success this year for the outfit which beat Boston College 21-7 in its opener, and followed it up with a 33-0 drubbing of Auburn.

TIME AND PLACE—Tomorrow night at the Dixon high school athletic field. Frosh-soph game at 6:30 p. m. Varsity game to follow.

COACHES: C. B. Lindell (Dixon varsity); Rufus Dewitz (Mendota varsity).
OFFICIALS: J. M. Cole of Princeton; C. C. Ellis of Rochelle; DeForrest Hitchcock of Rochelle.

There is a new wave of hope spreading over the oppressed, peoples of Europe inspired by the "V for Victory" campaign which is symbolized by the Morse code's three dots and a dash. Its psychological value has been tremendous.

All of which is by way of saying that over at Dixon high school where the local gridiron warriors are suffering under the heels of conquerors, there is also the need for a rebirth of courage and victory-mindedness.

The gloom of an early October rainy day has settled over the local campus for a month ago Coach C. B. Lindell began his 13th football season here. Since that time the Dukes have lost three straight games to equal in duration the "Depression of '39" when the Dukes also took three straight on the chin. At no other time in the local coach's career have conditions been worse. At no time has he lost more than three in a row.

"V FOR VICTORY"
Such circumstances have submerged the team and mentor in a deep well of gloom which needs a shakeup in psychology to bring 'em back to the surface.

The inspiration of a "V for Victory" campaign could do it. For the rest of the material is there. For one week end let the uplifting strains of Ludwig van Beethoven's Fifth Symphony shake the local gridirers by the bootstraps and then watch those new plastic helmets fly into the air with a hip-hip-hurray!

After taking defeat from Oregon, East Rockford and DeKalb, the Dixon team now faces Mendota here tomorrow night in the second conference game. There is nothing that succeeds like success, and one good victory under their belt is likely to turn the Dixon campaign back on the straight and narrow path that conquerors tread to the end of any war.

"V FOR VICTORY"
Experimenting with shifts in lineup—as much as can be done with the rainy nights and the loss of several promising candidates by ineligibilities—Coach Lindell has announced only a tentative lineup for tomorrow night. Several changes may be expected before game time, he says.

However, he has been trying Knack at left end this week and shifting Shank into the backfield at right half. "Sonny" Fulmer has been given more chances to show his talents at center and may be a starter by tomorrow night. At left guard Coach Lindell has been working with Hess, Potts and Edwards in an effort to strengthen that post.

At right tackle Collins has been exchanging positions with Quilhot and Evans. Hink has been tried at quarterback and Wiener at fullback. All of these changes or none may be tried tomorrow night.

"V FOR VICTORY"
In facing Mendota, the Dukes will meet a foe which lost its first conference game last week end too. Each team will be trying for a win with slight odds—according to records—in the Mendota team's favor. To date the Dewitzmen have won two and lost one. Their triumphs have included victories over Morris (19 to 0) and DePue (37 to 0). The visitors are reported to be big boys and fast and against them Coach Lindell must match his small boys and slow.

Preceding tomorrow night's varsity show will be the freshman-sophomore game as Coach Marvin Winger's lads seek their second conference victory after a 6 to 0 triumph over DeKalb last week end. The preliminary game will start at 6:30 p. m.

GREATEST OF ALL TIME

New York, Oct. 9 (Barrow, president of the Yankees, says that for spirit and gameness, the 1941 edition was the greatest baseball club of all time.

SHUCKS STILL LEAD CLASSIC LOOP BOWLERS

Although losing two games (and a chicken dinner) last night the Shuck's Grocery quintet maintained its one-game margin to lead the big 16-team Classic League at the Dixon Recreation.

News-makers however, were the pinnies who set new individual records. Ed Worley came through with a 246 game to top the list thus far in the season and his 627 series was two-pins better than his previous record. Harold Dockery and Frank Daschbach 245-game to trail Worley by one pin in the record standings and R. Hoyle's 625 series remained second high. All team records remained untouched.

Old Style Lager dropped from second place in the standings and three teams (Bonded Gas & Oil, Boynton-Richards and Wilbur Lumber company) moved into second place, one game behind the leaders.

Wetly's Pontiacs swept the series from Old Style Lager as Faber counted a 531 series for the winners and M. Miller's 491 led the losers.

Jump to Second Place Tie
Wilbur Lumber jumped to second place tie with a three-game triumph over Gold Buckle Orange. Leading the winners was Daschbach with a top-form 603 series and C. Hoyle counted 435 for the losers.

Family Liquor Store won two games from Shuck's leaders. Topping the winners was Potts with a 500 count and Shuck rolled 552 for his mates.

Jay's Tavern won two games from the I. N. U. Leading the winners was Ostrander with 486 and Schertner counted 542 for the utilities.

Boynton-Richards took two games from the United Cigar Store as Dockery counted 549 for the winners and Bremer rolled 475 for his mates.

Bonded Gas & Oil won two games from Williams DeSoto. Leading the winners was Metzzen with 544 and Worley's excellent 627 series topped the losers.

Knacks Win Two
Knacks took two games from the Court House with John Smith counting 584 for the winners and Schrock leading the losers with 469.

Welch & Brader scored a two-game victory over Beier's Bread as Nicklaus led the winners with 449 and J. McCordie marked up 487 for the doughboys.

High games last night included those of: Faber 212, Daschbach 245, Potts 210, Shuck 213, Schertner 210, Schroeder 203, Dockery 245, Hackett 209, Bremer 201, Wolfe 213, Worley 246, J. Smith 231, Detweiler 216.

Weekly Food and Marketing Letter by Mrs. Emily M. Lautz for Dixon Telegraph Readers

Have you ever thought of the fascinating history of American roses? The story starts with the tenderly-wrapped cuttings brought to this country by early settlers, and tended carefully through long years of development.

Each year at the International Flower Show in Grand Central Palace, New York City, thousands of visitors are drawn in admiration by brilliant new varieties of roses—more fragrant, more colorful and harder than ever. For part of the joy of today's roses is that the average gardener of small means, whose limited horticultural background is counterbalanced by vast enthusiasm, is able to grow roses that bloom through the summer season.

Fall is the time to plant roses for next Summer's enjoyment, as everyone knows, and these are the days when eager gardeners are poring over catalogues, or browsing around in big flower shops reading labels and asking: "Will it really blossom every month?" Yes, rose planting is a happy thought now, with suntan fading and leaves turning brilliant—and crisp nights just around the corner.

Modern roses are not being restricted to decoration. They are being introduced in recipes. Just recently I learned that series of unusual recipes for the use of fresh roses has been created by Miss Christine McKeever, of New York City.

They have proved exceedingly popular, establishing a vogue for "Rose Luncheons" from coast to coast. Fresh roses, in all colors, are used in table decoration, while linen in various rose shades covers the tables.

Here is a typical menu: Rose-shaped crabapple appetizer; dates modeled to resemble rosebuds; fresh strawberries cut to look like rose petals, served with rose petal dressing.

Baked rose-shaped tomato, stuffed with chicken and rice. Served with variety of fresh vegetables, cooked and raw, cut in forms of roses. This course is served with a special sauce made from mushrooms, herbs, chicken stock and rose petal preserves.

Raspberry and rose petal rolls with wild rose butter (light butter, cut in shape of wild roses).

Moulds of rose-fashioned strawberry mousse, with rose syrup. Crystallized rose petals decorating small cakes. Peppermint tea or coffee.

Now for some of the recipes. They are neither complicated nor costly. Doubtless the art of using rose petals in cooking is a rediscovery of methods used in ancient times. This rose petal dressing makes a party treat of any fruit salad.

Rose Petal Dressing
1/4 cup lime juice
1/4 cup pineapple juice
1/4 cup pure olive oil
Grated green from outside of 1/2 lime.

2 teaspoons honey.
Pinch salt.

Well-washed petals from 3 highly scented red roses. (Remove white pulpy matter from base of petals, as this has bitter taste.)

Chop rose petals very fine. Mix ingredients in order given. Shake thoroughly in covered jar, or use liquefying machine for mixing.

If allowed to stand before serving, shake well again. Yields about 1 cup dressing.

The recipe which will have the greatest appeal for the home-maker who is seeking something distinctive, is crystallized rose petals. This recipe is both simple and inexpensive.

Crystallized Rose Petals
Select highly scented fresh roses, dark red preferably, and wash well. Remove petals and drain. Remove white pulpy base of petals, as this has bitter flavor.

Beat the white of 1 egg to a foam. Dip small pastry brush (or use fingers) in the egg white and brush both sides of rose petal well. Be certain that no surplus egg white remains on petals, but see that both sides are moist.

Shake granulated sugar on both sides of the petals and place on a tray to dry in the ice box. Use same process for mint leaves. These may be used for trimmings, or curled as a rosebud for decorating, combined with mint leaf on a cup cake. This gives that French pastry chef's touch. These are perfect with tea as a decoration. Delicious also as candy.

If you have no fresh roses for the great experiment, try crystallizing mint leaves until the next party brings you enough roses for decorating—and "cooking".

DISTINCTIVE DESSERTS

Cranberry Tapioca

1-4 cup tapioca
1-4 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon salt

2 cups boiling water
1 cup cranberry sauce
2 tablespoons orange juice

1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup cream, whipped

Cook tapioca and sugar in salted water in top of double boiler 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Cool and add cranberry sauce, orange juice and rind. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into glasses and chill. Top with whipped cream at serving time. Serves 6.

Mocha Ice Cream

1-2 cups milk
2 tablespoons ground coffee
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten

1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cups heavy cream, whipped

Heat milk with coffee in a double boiler, and strain hot mixture through fine strainer or a cheese-cloth. Pour into double boiler and stir aside, away from heat.

Melt half the sugar in heavy fry pan, stirring until it becomes a light brown syrup. Slowly stir in remaining sugar. Add this to the mixture in a double boiler and place over flame, stirring until the sugar is dissolved.

Stir in the beaten egg yolks and salt. Return mixture to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until the spoon has a custard-like coating.

Cool and add cream. Pour mixture into tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze. Yields 1 quart.

PICKLING TIME

Pepper Hash

1 lb. each red and green peppers, seeds removed
1-2 lbs. onions, skins removed
1 pint vinegar
1-2 lb. sugar

Cut vegetables fine, or run through medium knife of food chopper. Pour 2 quarts water over mixed vegetables. Allow to stand 5 minutes and drain.

Add to the drained vegetables, 1-2 pint vinegar and 2 pints water. Bring to a boil, then drain well.

Add 1-2 pound sugar and 1-2 pint vinegar. Mix and heat to boiling. Partially seal in jars and process 10 minutes. Complete the seal. Cool and store. Note: 1 tablespoon celery seed may be added, if desired.

Simple Beet and Cabbage Relish

1 quart cooked beets
1 quart raw cabbage
1-2 cup grated horseradish
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt

1-8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup cider vinegar
1 cup water

Chop the cooked beets and the raw cabbage very finely and mix together with horseradish, sugar, salt and pepper. Bring vinegar and water to boiling point and pour over vegetables. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal immediately. Yields 4 pints. More sugar may be added, if a sweeter relish is preferred.

Why Sauerkraut Spoils
Kraut may discolor, soften, or spoil for these reasons: A wrong proportion of salt to cabbage, poor mixing of salt and cabbage, poor packing, poor skimming, dirty containers, poorly paraffined wood, the rising of the cabbage above the surface of the brine, or the storage of the kraut in too warm a place.

MORE ABOUT PICKLING
White vinegar causes white vegetables, such as cauliflower and onions, to retain their clear white color. The practice of heating green vegetables in copper kettles to intensify color is unsafe because the copper salts which are formed are poisonous.

Granulated sugar is used in pickle-making. Too much sugar causes pickles to shrivel. Whole spices are used, rather than ground ones, because the ground spices darken the pickles. Enough spice is used to bring out the characteristic flavor of the vegetable, but not enough to destroy the flavor.

The best containers for salted products are clean earthenware crocks of 4 to 6 gallons capacity. If wooden kegs or casks are used, the inside of the keg must be thoroughly washed and dried, then brushed lightly with melted paraffin. The melted paraffin is burned off the surface. This fills the pores with melted wax and at the same time sterilizes the container.

When salt or salt solution comes in direct contact with fruits or vegetables, its first effect is to withdraw juices from the plant and thus to cause some shriveling of the plant tissue. The larger the quantity of salt present, the greater is the shriveling of the fruit or vegetable tissue. Too strong a vinegar and too much sugar also will cause shriveling.

After salt has withdrawn some of the juices from the fruits or vegetables, then the shriveled plant tissue begins to absorb the salt solution and to fill out again. If the salt solution has not been too strong at first, the fruit or vegetable will not only resume its original shape and plumpness, but it will also be firmer and crispier than in its natural state. A well-cured vegetable will be crisp. The Cornell Bulletin on pickling terms it a "poor and unnecessary practice" to add alum to "crisp" pickles.

Doorstop dolls! Have you heard about the new 1941 all-American series? Very practical dolls they are, for their bodies are made from weighted soda bottles, making them heavy enough to hold back swinging, banging doors.

Making these dolls now seems to be as popular as that before-Christmas wave of sticking whole cloves in oranges and lemons. Guests cannot fail to admire each silent little doll hostess that stands at the room entrance. Dolls I have seen on guard lately include a black-haired Indian maid, a Southern Belle, a cowgirl and a Mammy doll. Other dolls may be made in the same manner, so that your favorite characters from history, books, moving pictures or real life can be copied for door-stop dolls.

Try a competition some evening, supplying members of the family or party guests with the necessary—and amazingly inexpensive—materials and let them make doorstops for their rooms. They are sure to have fun—and probably will turn out some hilarious caricatures. I admit it is easier to create after seeing one of these Bottle Doll doorstops, but I am giving you general details for making the body, which then may be varied in color, dress and type.

Most stores stocking crepe papers will have pictures of different doorstop dolls or complete instruction sheets.

Body: Use a soda or pop bottle about 8 inches tall. Fill with sand and put in a tight cork stopper.

Head: Make a tube 6 inches deep and 5 inches in circumference out of colored crepe paper. Stuff the tube with tissue and tie with spool wire 1 inch from the top and 2 inches from the bottom. Cut off the surplus crepe at the top. Slip the paper below the doll's head over the neck of the bottle and warp in place with spool wire. Features may be cut from red, blue or black gummed dots, or may be painted on with crayon or water color paints. Tint cheeks with rouge.

Hair: Cut a strip of crepe paper 2 inches wide across the grain. Slash one long edge into a fine fringe 1 inch deep. Curl the fringed edge over the scissors. Paste hair in rows around doll's head.

Arms: Cut a piece of heavy wire 14 inches long. Bend back 1/2 inch at each end for hands. Then wrap the wire several times with a narrow strip of the crepe paper cut across the grain. Place the arm at right angles to the bottle doll 1 inch below the head and hold in place by wrapping both together with a strip of crepe paper. Criss-cross the wrapping to keep arms from slipping. Pad doll's body with tissue as you wrap.

Peach-colored crepe paper was used for the foundation of the attractive Southern Belle. Over her plain undershirt was a full, ruffled outer skirt made this way:

Outer skirt: Cut a strip of white crepe paper 7 inches deep across the grain and 24 inches long. Gather 2 1/2 inch wide strips of crepe for ruffles. Sew around bottom of skirt. Cover top stitching with a rubber ruffle gathered through the center. Gather top of skirt with needle and thread and fasten in place around the bottle.

Bodice: Make bodice of double thickness of white crepe paper. Add collar of gathered white paper or ribbon.

Poke Bonnet: Cut bonnet brim of lightweight cardboard or Mat Stock. Cover both sides with shirred crepe paper. Finish edge with ruffle of ribbon. For the crown cut a strip of paper. Finish edge with ruffle of ribbon. For the crown cut a strip of paper 5 inches deep and long enough to go around the doll's head. Fold strip in half lengthwise. Measure up 1 1/2 inches from the folded edge at the top with needle and thread. Trim both bonnet and skirt with blue ribbon bows and pink roses.

The Mammy doll had head and arms of Van Dyke brown crepe paper, a heavy white crepe undershirt, covered by an outer skirt of bright red crepe paper.

Make her hair this clever way: Cut a strip of black crepe paper 2 inches wide across the grain. Stretch, then brush paste over doll's head and apply crepe by crushing close together to give a rough woolly effect. As for the bandana:

Cut a 12 inch square of red crepe paper. Fold in half on the bias to form a triangle. Decorate with white gummed dots and bring around doll's head, twisting ends of triangle in front.

Line up those empty soda bottles, fill them with sand and try your hand at bottle dolls. You will be so captivated by this hobby that you will need to go in search for bigger and noisier doors for your doorstop dolls to guard.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
All-Brain Apple Fritters

Now is the time for those substantial dishes that "stick to your ribs." Breathes there a man who does not cheer for fritters. Fritters are an excellent choice for cool days and apple fritters are an all-American choice now—with growers urging more general use of this fruit.

Wholesome apples and healthful all-brain—what a combination and fried in pure vegetable shortening, in the best Cooking School tradition.

1 cup sifted flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoons salt
1-4 cup sugar
1 egg
2-3 cup milk
2 teaspoons melted shortening
2-3 cup all-brain
3 to 4 apples
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Shortening for frying.

Core and pare apples and slice in 1/2 inch slices. Combine powdered sugar and lemon juice and pour over apples. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Beat eggs slightly; add milk and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and mix until smooth. Stir in all-brain.

Dip apple rings in batter, completely coating. Fry in deep shortening, 375 degrees F. until brown; 4 to 6 minutes. Drain on unglazed paper. Serves 8.

Eat More Apples
Serve apples baked, in apple sauce, in thick, spicy, pies, in puddings. Use unsweetened sauce with meats.

Wet Weather Delaying Harvest of Soy Beans

Chicago, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Outstanding contracts involving soybeans for October delivery on the Board of Trade had been reduced to 2,450,000 bushels today. This was about 600,000 less than a week ago. These contracts must be settled either by pit operations or delivery of beans before the end of the month.

Trade reports showed bean receipts here so far in October have been small, with the harvest delayed by wet weather, and best grades commanding high prices for immediate delivery. Spot beans have sold as high as 6 cents over October delivery and some downstate Illinois processors were reported to have paid even greater premiums.

How to make Pillsbury's
Four-Layer Cream Pie
It's different, new, and mighty good!

Easy Pillsbury Recipe:

First, a flaky, tender pie crust: 1. Bake a flaky pie shell, using Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour. Chill ingredients before mixing. Work quickly, with a "light" hand. Add ice water to flour mixture a little at a time. Enriched Pillsbury's Best has the same perfect flavor and fine baking quality as always, but two B-vitamins and iron have been added—elements everyone needs for sound nerves and good appetite. 2. The smooth, creamy filling: Combine 1/4 c. Pillsbury's Best, 1/2 c. sugar, and 1/4 tsp. salt in top of double boiler. Add 3 c. milk, slowly, stir constantly. As the mixture thickens, note the rich creamy color, the smooth, ungrained texture so necessary to perfect filling. Pillsbury's Best is tested every hour for creamy-white color! 3. Cook mixture over boiling water until thick and smooth (10 min.). 4. Add a little of the hot filling to 2 eggs, well-beaten. Mix well. Return to hot mixture. Stir and cook about 1 min., longer. 5. Remove from fire—add 1 tsp. vanilla. 6. Stir 1/2 mixture into your tender, flaky pie shell (it's always tender and flaky if you use Pillsbury's Best, for we test by actual bake 4 to 6 times daily to make sure that Pillsbury's Best will always do its very best for you! Pillsbury's Best is truly bake-proved, to protect your baking). 7. Add 1/2 cup (1/2 c.) unsweetened chocolate, melted, and 3 Tbsp. sugar to other half. Pour over the smooth vanilla filling. 8. Bake 30 min. in hot water bath. 9. Let cool. 10. Top thick, sweetened whipped cream over top. Four-Layer Cream Pie looks like a chef's dream. And as you cut it, note how tender, how delicate and flaky pie crust can be when you use Pillsbury's Best! Four-Layer Cream Pie tastes as luscious as it looks, so we'd advise making an extra one. Then you can answer those "Have another piece of pie?" MORE BAKE-PROVED RECIPES IN EVERY BAG

John M. Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, said yesterday he had instructed the U. S. Housing Authority to obtain options on the site pending congressional appropriation of additional funds for defense housing.

Warren Says Biddle Didn't See Address

San Francisco, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Earl Warren, president of the National Association of Attorneys General, described as a tempest in a teapot demands that congress investigate cancellation of a national broadcast of an address by Attorney General George F. Biddle during the association's convention.

The demand was made by Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R.-Pa.) who said the broadcast attacking communism and fascism had been cancelled in Indianapolis after Warren conferred with Attorney General Francis J. Biddle. Simpson termed the cancellation a "case of new deal radio censorship". Warren, a leading California Republican who has attacked the new deal, communism and fascism, said, "I never read the speech and Biddle certainly didn't know anything about it at all."

PLANS CHANGED

Washington, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Plans for recreation centers at Rantoul and Waukegan, Ill., were changed from federal to non-federal projects, reverting to the proposal of the original applications. John M. Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, announced yesterday.

Every state has a law requiring the registration of births.

Strength of Army Air Corps Facing Test on Seaboard

Civilian Spotters and Searchlights to Play Part in Maneuvers

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Roaring bombers and lightning fast fighter planes took off from Massachusetts to North Carolina today as the army sought to determine the efficiency of its air force and of some 40,000 civilian air raid spotters.

The maneuvers, beginning at dawn, were the most widespread ever undertaken in the United States in the interest of air efficiency and defense, and they will continue until Oct. 16.

Day and night for the next week air raid alarms may sound in any of the innumerable communities of the 10 state area, warning the citizenry that they are in danger of a simulated attack and the work of organized spotters will be checked carefully through their telephone reports to headquarters in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and some 1,600 other observation posts.

The night sky over the nation's biggest city will be streaked with the brilliant rays of 50 of the army's powerful 800,000,000 candle power searchlights, while Boston and Philadelphia each will have 15 or 20 such lights and Norfolk, Va., about 45 to aid in the interception of the "attackers."

400 Planes Involved
Throughout the area, pursuit lanes will be stationed in various communities to take off at a moment's notice against the bombers. In all, more than 400 planes of all types will participate.

In New York, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia issued a special warning to some 7,000,000 residents not to be alarmed by the sudden movement of fire apparatus, ambulances and troops and pointed out that a part of the maneuvers would be an attack on Fort Tilden, in Queens, where a force of 1,000 to 1,500 troops from Fort Hancock, N. J., would attempt to make a landing under the protection of fighter planes.

At LaGuardia Field, the world's largest airport, batteries of coast artillery anti-aircraft guns and a body of troops equipped with searchlights and listening apparatus awaited the series of "attacks" that likely will be spaced through the week.

Soaring Income of Farmers May Allow Reduced Benefits

Cut of $200,000,000 in Payments Considered Possible Next Year

Washington, Oct. 9—(AP)—With farm products bringing the highest prices since 1930 and still advancing, agriculture department officials predict that the administration should be in a position to make a sizable cut in its budget for 1942 crop benefit payments.

Indications were that the cut might exceed $200,000,000, or more than one-fourth of the cost of the present benefit program.

Agricultural prices are nearly 45 per cent higher than a year ago. Departmental economists predict further advances this winter and next spring. Because of the higher prices and prospects for the largest food demand in history, the department forecasts that farm income may approach $13,000,000,000 next year.

An income of this size would be the largest since 1920 and $2,000,000,000 above the estimate for this year.

Congress appropriated about $760,000,000 for farm benefit payments for 1941 crops, including $500,000,000 for cooperation with soil conservation programs, $48,000,000 for cooperation with the sugar production and marketing control program, and $212,000,000 for parity payments.

Budget Estimates

Farm officials said that the president's new budget to be placed before congress in January probably would ask for the same amount for soil conservation, but a reduction of at least $100,000,000 in parity payments and possibly the elimination of appropriations for sugar programs.

Greatly improved prices for cotton may make it possible, officials said, to drop parity payments for this crop. The department has set aside $88,300,000 for such payments on the 1941 crop at a rate of 2.75 cents a pound. Cotton now is bringing slightly more than parity prices.

(Parity prices are the goals of the administration's farm programs. Such prices, officials explain, would give farm commodities purchasing power in terms of non-farm goods and services equal to that of a base period, now set at 1910-14. Parity payments are designed to make up the difference between the market price and parity goals when the former are below parity.)

Poliomyelitis on Wane in Illinois, Director Reports

Fears of Epidemic of Dread Infantile Paralysis Diminish

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9—(AP)—It appeared today the prevalence of infantile paralysis in Illinois as on a downward trend and that a major epidemic of the disease, which experts said several months ago was a serious likelihood, would not materialize.

Dr. Roland A. Cross, director of the state department of public health, said only 18 new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in the state during the week ended Oct. 6.

This compared with 31 cases reported during the previous week, the peak number for a one-week period this year.

The total number of cases reported in Illinois to Oct. 6 was 270. This figure compared with 335 cases during the same period of 1940 and 683 cases reported during the comparative period of 1937—the peak epidemic year.

In contrast to the unusually high incidence which students of the disease said early this summer was a likely prospect for Illinois in 1941, officials said they were hopeful that this would be a relatively mild year.

Carefully Studied

Dr. Cross said he believed that the efforts of leading authorities in clinical and laboratory studies of the epidemic aspects of infantile paralysis, known to medical men as poliomyelitis, may result in valuable information to public health officials.

The health director said cases occurring in the Cook county area this year had been the subject of intensive investigation.

The Cook county studies have sought, among other things, to establish facts in connection with theories that polluted water supplies and sewage have a direct bearing upon spread of the disease.

These theories have been supported circumstantially in similarities noted during past years with typhoid fever epidemic experience. Public health officials are weighing the apparent effects of improvement in water sanitation facilities and increased sewage treatment facilities on the infantile paralysis experience of many communities.

Sales of domestic electric ranges for the first seven months of 1941 totaled 461,114, as compared with 278,681 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Defense now takes one-fourth of the more than 8,000,000 tons of paperboard which, it is estimated, will be manufactured in the U. S. during this year.

Every resident of New York is obligated through his state and federal governments for an average debt of $382.

Iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes the first eight months of 1941 totaled 51,418,000 long tons, an increase of 34.7 percent over the same period in 1940.

In the current school year, about 1,900,000 pupils will be graduated from eighth grade; 1,275,000 from high schools; and 175,000 from colleges and universities.

One person out of 14 became a hospital patient in 1937. The average length of stay in general hospitals was 12.6 days for both medical and surgical cases.
